POULTRY EXHIBIT AT EL PASO FAIR TO BE BIGGEST IN SOUTHWEST'S HISTORY

Many Cups Are Put up For Premiums; Also a Number of Special Awards—New Members Taken in.

It is some chicken show that the El Paso association is planning for the El Paso Fair and Exposition October 29 to November 6. Big chickens and little chickens, Rhode Island Reds and white Plymouth Rocks, with the varying shades, sizes and breeds will be shown at the big fair in an array of poultry that would make the heart of an Ethiopian glad beyond belief. Last year at the first annual fair, the poultry show was one of the finest departments of the big fair and created as much favorable comment as any other single department. This year it is expected that the poultry section will be the mecca for fanciers from all parts of the southwest. The El Paso association members have made up their collective and individual minds that it is to be some little chicken show that they will pull off at Washington park this fall. To resolve to revolve with the poultry folks. This was shown at their regular meeting at the chamber of commerce Thursday night, when the association made enough arrangements for the fair show to insure its success if nothing more is done but stick up the chickens for the exhibition.

A Chicken Banquet.
After the fair is over and the prizes, cups and awards have been made the Poultry association is planning to celebrate the success of its second annual show by giving a banquet to all of its members and the visiting fanciers, at which the piece de resistance will be chicken and more chicken. Not any of the common or garden variety of chicken for the fanciers, at their annual banquet. Nothing short of blooded stock will be served at this banquet and may be a prize winner or two will be offered up as a sacrifice to the shrine of old Epicurus, god of good things to eat, who is supposed to have invented chicken.

The Business Session.
The business session of the association meeting included the passage of a number of motions appointing committees to prepare for the show this fall and to complete the necessary arrangements for making it a success. J. M. Morrison, one of the most active members of the association, made the report of the special prize committee and received a vote of thanks for his committee when he announced that a total of 11 silver cups and a good sized bank account in cash prizes had been donated. Miss Ruth Williams also gave a brief talk on the importance of the members belonging to the specialty club and its good value in increasing interest in the association. C. C. Hanley, editor of the Business Farmer, an agricultural publication, which is issued in El Paso, was also present and made a brief speech, after which he was elected an honorary member of the association. Nine new members were taken into the membership of the association after it had been shown that the $1 in legal tender had been paid to the treasurer. These new members were: J. W. Curd, F. J. McKamy, N. S. Corbin, J. O. Crowson, H. C. Marks, G. T. Moore, F. A. Grace, D. G. Heinemann and F. G. Powrie.

The officers of the Poultry association are: R. B. Horn, president; J. G. Kennan, vice president; J. A. Gumm, vice president; L. E. Gillett, secretary and treasurer; Lee O. Paddock, assistant secretary and treasurer; J. M. Morrison, superintendent of exhibitors; H. J. Shewell, J. M. Morrison, professor E. Stearns, W. L. Odell, Leonard West, directors.

BURGES STIRS UP A HORNET'S NEST
El Paso Man Starts the Lawyers Talking Over His Annual Address.

W. H. Burges has stirred up the lawyers of Texas, according to the Dallas News. In his address to the Texas Bar association as its president, at San Angelo, Tuesday, he assailed some of the laws of the Texas legislature and the method of "making" party conventions. Says the Dallas News, in a dispatch from San Angelo: Figuratively speaking, Hon. William H. Burges of El Paso, retiring president of the State Bar association, hurled a bomb among the members of that body at their opening session and effectually shattered the calm which had theretofore prevailed among them. President Burges criticized the legislature for the steadily increasing number of its enactments. He compared the number of laws passed by each legislature since 1891 with the annual value of corn, cotton and other crops of Texas. The cotton crop, he said, had increased 82 per cent, but the biennial crop of Texas laws shows an increase of 278 per cent. The president expressed the opinion that many of the laws were passed without due deliberation and investigation, and therefore many of them were valueless. He said that other laws never have been passed at all, and cited specific instances. The state had escaped freak legislation, he said, but had not escaped legislation that is worse. Among those that he placed in the category of the latter is the blacklisting law.

Demands for Specific Legislation.
Taking up another phase, president Burges deplored the growing tendency of political conventions to incorporate in their platforms demands for specific legislation. In his opinion this was all wrong; law should be framed with care and deliberation by men well qualified for the task, not by inexperienced and poorly informed persons assembled "during the heated days of August" for a brief political session. The legislature, he declared, had seen the growing evil and had sought to check it by adopting the amendment to the Terrell election law known as Sec. 129, which provides that the demand for specific legislation shall be incorporated in a party platform until it has been first submitted to a party primary and has received a majority of all the votes cast thereon. "And yet," he exclaimed, "the very

Important Announcement

Made by Kelly & Pollard to Every Person Afflicted With Dandruff.

Kelly & Pollard desire to announce to the readers of this paper that they have secured the agency for Parisian Sage, the marvelous dandruff cure and delightful hair dressing. Parisian Sage is the prescription of an eminent hair specialist and dermatologist, one of the best known in the world. Kelly & Pollard are glad to state that Parisian Sage is a rigidly guaranteed hair restorer. It cures dandruff in two weeks by killing the dandruff microbes; it stops falling hair; it cures all scalp diseases, or money back.

It is a most pleasant hair dressing, especially for ladies, as it makes the hair soft and lustrous. The price is only 50 cents a large bottle at Kelly & Pollard's or by express, all charges prepaid, from Groux Mfg. Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Don't let the name fool you. Beware of any druggist who offers you a substitute for Parisian Sage. He is unworthy of your confidence. The girl with Asbury hair is on every bottle.

Our window displays of Round-Up values are certainly interesting. Don't fail to see them!
